

Public Opinion in Pakistan in the Year 2002

SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR

Others

Over a period of 17 years, nearly 2/3rd Pakistanis hold politicians to be responsible for the problems faced by Pakistan.

GALLUP & GILANI PAKISTAN

Islamabad, August 8, 2017

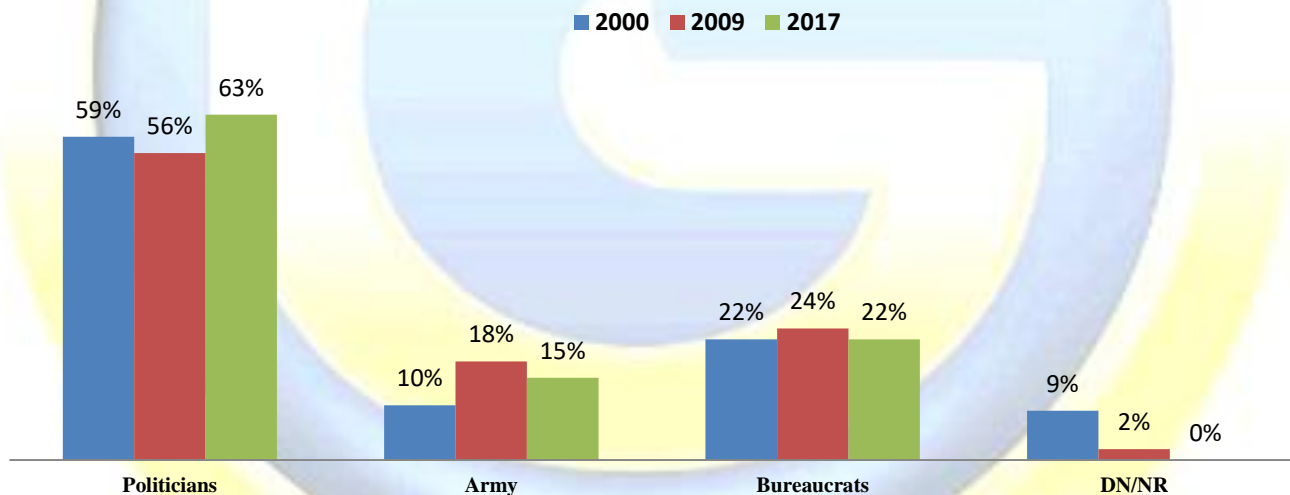

According to a Gallup & Gilani Pakistan National Survey conducted in the year 2000 (17 years ago) respondents were asked “Who do you consider to be most responsible for the problems faced by Pakistan?” In response to this question, 59% said politicians are responsible for the problems faced by Pakistan, 10% said army, 22% said bureaucrats and 9% did not know or wish to respond.

Comparative Picture: The question was asked again in 2017 to enable a concrete comparison. In 2017, 63% said politicians are responsible for the problems faced by Pakistan, 15% said army and 22% said bureaucrats.

The findings are available since 2000 periodically and the graph below shows how the public opinion has fluctuated over the past 17 years.

This press release has been made as part of the Gallup Pakistan History Project which aims to release historical empirical polling data to wider audiences. The objective is to sustain and encourage empirical decision making in Pakistan.

Question: “Who do you consider to be most responsible for the problems faced by Pakistan?”

Aim and Rationale for Gallup Pakistan History Project

Bilal I Gilani, who is Executive Director at Gallup Pakistan and is Director of Gallup Pakistan History Project explains the aim of the Project as follows: ‘Gallup Pakistan has been polling in Pakistan since 1979 (over 35 years). During this time millions of Pakistanis have been surveyed by over a thousand interviewers of Gallup. In 2014, Gallup Pakistan has decided to release historical Public Opinion data and this Press Release is part of Gallup Pakistan’s History Project. This endeavor is dedicated to all those who hope for a more empirical understanding of Pakistani Issues. For more information about Gallup History Project, please contact caf@gallup.com.pk.
