

Public Opinion in Pakistan in the Year 2006

FESTIVALS and EVENTS New Years/ New Millennium

(2006-2016) 8% decrease in the proportion of Pakistanis who think Muslims should not celebrate New Year. GILANI POLL/GALLUP PAKISTAN

Islamabad, November 22, 2016

According to a Gallup Pakistan National Survey conducted in the year 2006 (10 years ago) respondents were asked, “Some people want to celebrate New Year while others say that it is not a Muslim festival. Do you think Muslims should celebrate this event or not?” To this, 37% said should celebrate, 63% said should not celebrate.

Comparative Picture: The question was asked again in 2016 to enable a concrete comparison. In 2016, 44% said should celebrate, 55% said should not celebrate. 1% did not know or did not wish to respond.

According to public opinion, there has been a 7% increase in the proportion of Pakistanis who think Muslims should celebrate New Year and an 8% decrease in the proportion of Pakistanis who think Muslims should not celebrate New Year.

This press release has been made as part of the Gallup Pakistan History Project which aims to release historical empirical polling data to wider audiences. The objective is to sustain and encourage empirical decision making in Pakistan.

Question: “Some people want to celebrate New Year while others say that it is not a Muslim festival. Do you think Muslims should celebrate this event or not?”

Aim and Rationale for Gallup Pakistan History Project

Bilal I Gilani, who is Executive Director at Gallup Pakistan and is Director of Gallup Pakistan History Project explains the aim of the Project as follows: ‘Gallup Pakistan has been polling in Pakistan since 1979 (over 35 years). During this time millions of Pakistanis have been surveyed by over a thousand interviewers of Gallup. In 2014, Gallup Pakistan has decided to release historical Public Opinion data and this Press Release is part of Gallup Pakistan’s History Project. This endeavor is dedicated to all those who hope for a more empirical understanding of Pakistani Issues. For more information about Gallup History Project, please contact caf@gallup.com.pk.’
