Parents and children share similar opinions on societal aspects like religion, moral values and social problems as cited by majority Pakistanis. Political aspects on the other hand nurture slight differences in opinion. (GALLUP & GILANI PAKISTAN POLL)

Islamabad, May 4, 2017

According to a Gilani Research Foundation Survey carried out by Gallup & Gilani Pakistan, parents and children share similar opinions on societal aspects like religion, moral values and social problems as cited by majority Pakistanis. Political aspects on the other hand nurture slight differences in opinion

A nationally representative sample of men and women from across the four provinces was asked, “Do you and your parents share or don’t share similar opinions in the following aspects of life?” In response to this question, for religion, 80% said they and their parents share similar opinions, while 20% said otherwise. For moral values, 72% said they and their parents share similar opinions, while 28% said otherwise. For social problems, 68% said they and their parents share similar opinions, while 32% said otherwise. For politics, 53% said they and their parents share similar opinions, while 47% said otherwise.

Question: “Do you and your parents share or don’t share similar opinions in the following aspects of life?”
