Islamabad, May 03, 2018

According to a Gallup & Gilani Pakistan National Survey conducted in the year 2012 (6 years ago) respondents in Pakistan were asked “How tolerant are you in your personal life?” In response to this question, 45% said very much, 47% said somewhat and 7% said not at all.

Comparative Picture: The question was asked again in 2018 to enable a concrete comparison. In 2018, 31% said very much, 43% said somewhat and 26% said not at all.

Over a period of 6 years, there has been a 14% decline in the proportion of Pakistanis who claim to be very tolerant in their personal lives, 4% decline who claim to be somewhat tolerant and 19% increase in the proportion of Pakistanis who say they are not tolerant at all in their personal lives.

This press release has been made as part of the Gallup Pakistan History Project which aims to release historical empirical polling data to wider audiences. The objective is to sustain and encourage empirical decision making in Pakistan.

Aim and Rationale for Gallup Pakistan History Project

Bilal I Gilani, who is Executive Director at Gallup Pakistan and is Director of Gallup Pakistan History Project explains the aim of the Project as follows: ‘Gallup Pakistan has been polling in Pakistan since 1979 (over 35 years). During this time millions of Pakistanis have been surveyed by over a thousand interviewers of Gallup. In 2014, Gallup Pakistan has decided to release historical Public Opinion data and this Press Release is part of Gallup Pakistan’s History Project. This endeavor is dedicated to all those who hope for a more empirical understanding of Pakistani Issues. For more information about Gallup History Project, please contact caf@gallup.com.pk.’
