Islamabad, August 2, 2018

According to the findings of the World Justice Project Report on The Rule of Law in Pakistan based on a Gallup Survey in urban Pakistan, as compared to neighbouring South Asian countries, more Pakistanis report they or someone in their neighbourhood has paid a bribe to receive assistance from the police (60%).

Regional Comparison: Nepal least bribery prone, highest in India.

On the other hand, bribery is least pervasive in Nepal where only 10% respondents claim to have paid bribes to police officers.
