63 % Pakistanis (40 % globally) agree that that it is too late to curtail climate change: WIN International and Gallup Pakistan

(Islamabad), June-9, 2021

According to a Gallup Pakistan Survey in Pakistan (and similar surveys done by WIN International across the world), 63% Pakistanis (40% globally) agree that it is already too late to curtail climate change.

WIN International, the world's leading association in market research and polling, has published the Annual WIN World Survey (WWS - 2020) exploring the views and beliefs of 26,759 individuals among citizens from 32 countries across the globe about climate change. The survey for Pakistan was conducted by Gallup Pakistan during 5th to 15th November 2020. The sample size was 1103 respondents and CATI methodology was used.

To find out more about this global survey on sharing personal information digitally, access the global press release here.

A nationally representative sample of adult men and women from across the four provinces was asked the following where they agree or disagree with the following statement, “It is already too late to curtail climate change.” 36% of the respondents totally agreed with this statement, 27% somewhat agreed although 13% of the respondents totally disagreed while 11% somewhat disagreed. 13% of the respondents did not know or did not respond.

Question: “Please tell, to what extent do you agree or disagree with the following statement: It is already too late to curtail climate change”

Compared to 54% of the global population that believes that it is not too late to curtail climate change, 24% Pakistanis think the same way. Alternatively, 63% Pakistanis do not hold such beliefs. This figure is relatively higher than the global average of 40%. USA, China and Brazil are the top three countries where people mostly believe that it is not too late to curb climate change.

The study was released by Gilani Research Foundation and carried out by Gallup & Gilani Pakistan, the Pakistani affiliate of Gallup International. The recent survey was carried out among a sample of 1,103 men and women in urban and rural areas of all four provinces of the country, during November 5, 2020 – November 15, 2020. The error margin is estimated to be approximately  $\pm 2-3$  percent at the 95% confidence level. The methodology used for data collection was CATI. Respondents hailed from over 100 districts of Pakistan.
