Public Opinion in Pakistan Since Year 2003

SOCIAL Society & Crime

Between 2003 - 2019, nearly 1 in 3 Pakistanis continue to believe that people eventually get what they deserve (Gallup & Gilani Pakistan Poll)

Islamabad, May 07, 2020

In a Gallup & Gilani Pakistan National Survey conducted in the year 2003, respondents were asked “Do you agree that in the end people get what they deserve?” In response 33% said yes.

Comparative Picture: This question was asked again in 2019 to enable a comparison to be made across the years. In 2019, 38% said yes.

Trend Analysis: The proportion of respondents who believed in overall justice rose between 2003-2005, after which it fell to 25% in 2009 and then gradually rose between 2011-2019. The lowest percentage was recorded in 2009 when only 25% respondents believed in overall justice, which was also a time of severe economic depression in the country. In 2019, nearly 2 in 5 respondents believed that people eventually get what they deserve.

This press release has been made as part of the Gallup Pakistan History Project which aims to release historical empirical polling data to wider audiences. The objective is to sustain and encourage empirical decision making in Pakistan.
