'Pakistanis' trust in Imran Khan rises ahead of elections'

Gallup survey shows Imran Khan seems to be most positively-rated politician while their opinion regarding Aftab Ahmad Zardari is least positive

The record-high inflation in Pakistan and the stumbling economy have bolstered the support bank of Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) as the nation is blaming the Pakistan Democratic Movement-led coalition government for the miseries it has been reeling with.

Gallup Pakistan published an opinion poll that showed that a majority of Pakistanis blame the coalition government for the record high inflation, while support for former prime minister Imran Khan has surged massively ahead of elections.
